1. About four hundred Soviet military advisers and technicians have arrived in Tsinan since March 1950. They receive special treatment from the Chinese Communists, and are accompanied by a Chinese Communist political official and a soldier when they go out.
2. The Tsinan airfield can accommodate 20 airplanes of Japanese type. In early June 1950 three or more planes were daily seen over the city. These were training flights, supervised by Soviet pilots and mechanics.
3. Soviet technicians are also supervising the operation of many large machine works, flour factories, and electric powerplants.
